This month's films pay tribute to the always elegant, Oscar-winning actress.

Wednesday, May 12 at 6 p.m.

FUNNY FACE

(1957, not rated, run time 103 minutes)

The dancing of Fred Astaire, the charm of Audrey Hepburn and the direction of Stanley Donen combine in this tale about a shy bookstore clerk transformed into a modeling sensation. Gershwin tunes and the scenery of Paris also star.

Wednesday, May 19 at 6 p.m.

BREAKFAST AT TIFFANY'S

(1961, not rated, run time 114 minutes)

Audrey Hepburn sparkles as Holly Golightly, a playgirl searching for a suitable millionaire. George Peppard is the struggling writer swept into her dizzying, unstructured world. The movie won Oscars for its score and its haunting song, "Moon River."

Wednesday, May 26 at 6 p.m.
TWO FOR THE ROAD
 (1967, not rated, run time 111 minutes)

Audrey Hepburn and Albert Finney star as a couple traveling through the south of France and reminiscing about the stages of their sometimes troubled 12-year marriage. Frederic Raphael was nominated for an Oscar for best original story.
